Preparing ethical leaders for a complex world.

Harvard Divinity School, a global leader in advancing understanding of religion and its significance in today’s complex world, prepares leaders for ministry and academia. At HDS, learning involves the exploration of the world’s religions, as well as the profound influence of religion throughout the world. And all of this takes place at Harvard, which offers resources for learning you’ll find nowhere else. We partner with students to help make an HDS education affordable. They go on to diverse careers in the U.S. and around the globe, as ministers in congregations, teachers, religious scholars, lawyers, nonprofit leaders, advocates for social justice, and in a range of other fields.
